

Economic Uncertainty and the Outlook for Semiconductors

ESG 2020

Duncan Meldrum

Chief Economist, Hilltop Economics LLC

In the midst of a global pandemic that is severely disrupting economic activity, semiconductors have continued to recover from a downturn in 2019. The disconnect between performances of the economy and semiconductors traces to the nature of the pandemic and the responses of policymakers, businesses and households. The outlook for semiconductors depends on future behavior as well as technology trends that will be discussed in the presentation.
